

Gaslight Street

Soul Infused Rock

Soul music will never go out of style. Just like Otis Redding and the Allman Brothers spawned from the same bluesy roots, Gaslight Street melds pure Southern rock with charismatic vocals, traipsing the boundaries of blues and funk.

Born in the growing musical bastion of Charleston, SC, Gaslight Street's regional presence has grown behind the release of their sophomore album, Idle Speed featuring the unmistakably soulful lyrics and vocals of Campbell Brown, the disc strongly stakes the band's place as worthy inheritors of the Southern soul tradition.

Idle Speed

Self-produced by Gaslight Street, Idle Speed is a fresh interpretation on Southern rock with heavy instrumentation, heart felt vocals and soulful expression. The tracks are laced with infectious guitar licks by lead vocalist Campbell Brown and are reminiscent of blues-rock from the 70's, while emphasizing the culture and rich, historical heritage of the South. Laid down at Ocean Industries in Charleston, SC and engineered by Jeff Leonard and Eric Rickert, Idle Speed is backed by Jason Stokes on the keyboards, Frank Nelson on the bass, Brooks DuBose on the drums and Stephen Stokes on the organ.

Band:

Press:

"Gaslight Street has tapped a shadowed reality that many know but few discuss, set to a soundtrack that feels just as real."

-Jamie Lee (Hittin' The Note)

"The music these guys make is as real and organic as it gets."

-Devin Grant (Post and Courier)

"At times the music is as rich and detailed as any Dylan, Neil or Booker T single."

-Ballard T. Lessemann (Charleston City Paper)
